

ISG students embark on Exchange Programme

Indian School Al Ghubra has been the trend setter as far as the Student Exchange programme is concerned and this year too a large number of students have been sent on exchange to the various Round Square International Member Schools. Under the aegis of Round Square, which shares a commitment beyond academic excellence to personal development, seven students have gone to other member schools in Australia, Canada, Germany, India and South Africa on a Student Exchange Programme for a Term. The most powerful force in promoting international understanding is exposure to other cultures, and through their student exchange programs Round Square schools teach students to see themselves as global citizens who look beyond gender, class, race, nationality, culture and devote substantial time and energy to the service of others.

The students who have left for the Exchange programme are - Shyam Narayan Sreekumar and Bhagyashree Gupte to St. Philips College, Alice Springs, Australia; Prachiti Venkatraman and Gavish Malhotra to Stiftung Louisenlund School, Germany; Anjana Srinivasan to The Lawrence School, Sanawar, India; Abby Thomas Leslie to St. Stithians Boys' College, Johannesburg, South Africa and Mahalaxmi Subramanian to Appleby College, Canada.
